

Chris Corps, CEO, Pivotal IRM

Chris is a land economist who has led multiple international initiatives including restructuring senior's care for the province of BC and embedding sustainability into international financial standards.

C H R I S C O R P S

High Performance Buildings Focus on the Business Case

Design and materiality have both conscious and subconscious impacts on occupants and users. The new Riverview Hospital demonstrated that a building can improve patient care, reduce medical costs and patient incidents and even advance treatment completion.

As a result, the concepts of Riverview have been incorporated in mental health facilities though out British Columbia.

